Building a Healthier Tomorrow: Reformed University's Compassion in Action

In a commitment to fostering a thriving and health-conscious academic community, Reformed University took a proactive step towards wellness by offering free flu vaccinations to students and staff. The school library, typically a hub of knowledge, transformed into a haven for health from September 18th to 19th.

2023 Flu Shot for student and faculty

with Gwinnett Drug Store (Sep 18-19, 2023)

This initiative aimed to create a shield of protection, not just against the seasonal flu, but also to cultivate a robust and resilient learning environment. The response was heartening, with approximately 40 students and staff members seizing the opportunity to prioritize their well-being.

Behind the scenes, the Student Affairs office orchestrated this thoughtful event, ensuring a seamless experience for all participants. Their dedication to the health and welfare of the university community was evident in every detail, from the well-organized setup to the friendly faces providing information and administering vaccinations. As the event drew to a close, the Student Affairs office expressed optimism for the future. With a vision for even greater participation next year, they hope to see the entire student body recognizing the importance of preventive health measures and actively contributing to the creation of a campus where well-being is not just encouraged but celebrated.

Student Course Evaluation

As the semester comes to a close, one of our obligations is to have our students complete the Course and Faculty Evaluations. Evaluation week is set for November 6-17. The evaluations are on the class page of each student, please give them 10 minutes before each class to complete the evaluation. Also, please assure your students that their evaluations are confidential and would not be viewed by anyone. Should you have any questions feel free to contact me by email or phone.

Harmony in Nature: Reformed University's fall 2024 Picnic Unveils a Tapestry of Togetherness

In the heart of autumn, where the colors of the changing leaves mirrored the vibrancy of the Reformed University community, the Student Council orchestrated a spectacular event—the Fall 2024 Picnic at Shorty Howell Park, Duluth. A convergence of students, faculty, and their families transformed the park into a tapestry of unity on October 21.

The crisp air resonated with laughter and camaraderie as participants engaged in an array of activities carefully curated for an unforgettable day. From friendly sports competitions to artistic expressions, the picnic provided a canvas for everyone to paint their own memories.

Under the sprawling canopies of the park's trees, families enjoyed delightful picnics while students and faculty mingled, forming connections that extend beyond the classroom. The shared joy of breaking bread together created an atmosphere where friendships blossomed, and bonds were strengthened.

The Fall 2024 Picnic at Shorty Howell Park wasn't just an event; it was a celebration of diversity, collaboration, and the unique spirit that defines Reformed University. As the echoes of laughter and the rustle of leaves subsided, the memories forged on that autumn day lingered as a testament to the commitment of the university to create an environment where every student and faculty member feels not just educated, but truly at home.

TRACS Conference

President Dr. Jino Jeong and Vice President Professor Sarah Jeong attended the TRACS conference held at the Orlando Hyatt Hotel from October 25 to 27. During the conference, they exchanged opinions on cooperation and interaction with member schools. TRACS is a federally recognized accreditation agency with approximately 100 member schools, and it holds an annual meeting at the end of October to discuss interactions and school development among member schools.
